MSCI axes more Chinese stocks from indices despite rebound

China's weighting in global indices has fallen over the years

BLOOMBERG
12 February

MSCI Inc further trimmed Chinese stocks from its global benchmarks, underscoring the market's diminishing appeal among investors despite a recent rebound. The index compiler will axe 20 stocks from the MSCI China Index, following more than 200 removals last year. Eight new constituents will be added. The changes, effective after the close on February 28, will also apply to the MSCI All Country World Index.

The quarterly revision comes at a crucial time for Chinese stocks. Optimism over DeepSeek's artificial intelligence prowess has helped drive a bull run in tech shares, offsetting concern over Donald Trump's tariff blow. While the MSCI China Index has rebounded about 15 per cent since a January low, questions remain over the AI-driven rally's sustainability.

The reduced weightings extend a yearslong trend, which saw Chinese stocks lose their dominance in global portfolios to emerging market rivals India and Taiwan.

Most of the Chinese stocks slated for removal this time are tied to the healthcare industry, including Asymchem Laboratories Tianjin Co, Bloomage Biotechnology Corp, Cathay Biotech Inc and Jointown Pharmaceutical

India rejig: Hyundai in, Adani Green out

Global index provider MSCI has announced the inclusion of Hyundai Motor India to the Standard India index, while removing Adani Green Energy. The move could result in passive flow of $25 million in the automaker and selling to the tune of $170 million in the renewable energy company. Among other changes, the weightings of eight firms including IndusInd Bank, Varun Beverages and Torrent Pharmaceuticals were increased, while HDFC Bank, Reliance Industries and ICICI Bank saw a slight reduction in weights. The changes announced will be implemented on February 28.

Sebi proposes relaxation in advance fee norms

KHUSHBOO TIWARI
Mumbai, 12 February

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) is considering easing regulations in the collection of advance fees from clients, in response to concerns raised by research analysts. Under the rules implemented in December 2024, research analysts were permitted to charge advance fees for only one quarter.

However, in a consultation paper issued on Wednesday, Sebi proposed extending this period to one year. The December 2024 regulations had drawn criticism from research analysts (RAs), who argued that the shorter fee-collection window would discourage them from providing long-term recommendations and disrupt existing fee structures. They also highlighted that frequent fee collections would create logistical challenges and additional costs for both clients and RAs.

Industry stakeholders had warned that the three-month fee collection mandate could force them to discontinue operations. They argued that clients might not stay beyond three months unless they saw immediate value in the recommendations, potentially pushing RAs and investment advisors (IAs) to prioritise short-term advice over long-term strategies to retain clients.

Prudential plans listing of ICICI Prudential AMC

Prudential Plc is considering the listing of ICICI Prudential Asset Management Company (AMC), India's second-largest mutual fund (MF) with assets of over ₹9 trillion. Through the initial public offering (IPO), the London-headquartered financial major plans to divest some of its 49 per cent stake. Shares of Prudential rallied over 6 per cent after the announcement on the London Stock Exchange. In 2016, Prudential had divested its stake in ICICI Prudential Life Insurance Company, another joint venture firm with the ICICI Bank group. Currently, ICICI Bank owns 51 per cent stake in ICICI Prudential AMC, while Prudential holds the remaining 49 per cent.

ADDITIONAL FACTOR AUTHENTICATION

AFA alert for fraud transaction? Block, report, replace card

HIMALI PATEL

On February 7, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) announced the implementation of Additional Factor Authentication (AFA) for cross-border "Card Not Present" (CNP) transactions. With the volume of international shopping and subscriptions to services rising, this measure aims to strengthen security for cardholders.

"AFA has already proved its effectiveness in reducing fraud in the domestic digital payment ecosystem. Until now, AFA was not mandated for international transactions. But with the growing numbers of digital payments, it was only a matter of time," says Venkat Narayanan, associate vice-president-products, Worldline.

Likely modus operandi

Many people subscribe to international services requiring monthly payments. "An AFA will be a must at the time of mandate registration, modification, or deletion," says Narayanan.

Currently, users receive notifications before auto-debits. Under the new system, the process may change slightly. "Customers will need to approve the payment via an OTP or another authentication method, as mandated by their bank. If users do not authenticate within a stipulated time, the transaction will not be processed," says Prashant Mali, cyber law expert and advocate, Bombay High Court.

ADDITIONAL SECURITY MEASURES YOU MUST ADOPT

- When shopping internationally, use only well-known and trusted websites or apps
- Ensure the website where you shop is secure (<https://>) and is the merchant's official site
- Enable SMS and email notifications for all transactions to detect unauthorised activity quickly
- Do not click on links in unsolicited emails
- Watch for spelling or logo errors, as phishing websites often mimic legitimate brands but may have slight differences in spelling, logos, or domain names

OTP that the issuing bank will trigger to the registered mobile number," says Narayanan.

Enhanced security

AFA provides an extra layer of security. "This verification is conducted through an alternative channel, different from the one where the purchase is being made," says Narayanan. For example, when making an online purchase, users may receive an OTP on their registered mobile number or be prompted for biometric authentication using a certified programme.

The system makes unauthorised transactions more difficult. "With AFA, even if a fraudster obtains a user's card details, they cannot complete a transaction without additional verification, such as an OTP sent to a registered mobile number. They would require access to your phone or email for OTP authentication, making it significantly harder to misuse the card," says Mali.

Phishing will also become harder to pull off. Using links, online shoppers are directed to fraudulent websites that capture payment details. "With AFA, customers will have an alternative channel to track payments initiated on their cards. They will also have control over whether to allow the payment to go ahead, after validating the merchant establishment and the amount," says Narayanan.

Stay vigilant, nonetheless

If a hacker attempts an unauthorised transaction using stolen card details, the cardholder will receive an AFA notification. "They should deny the transaction and report it to their bank. They should also cancel the card and replace it," says Narayanan.

Mehta suggests relying on advanced AFA solutions such as biometrics and facial recognition

Even with AFA in place, users must remain cautious. They should avoid storing card details on websites. "Consider using virtual or prepaid cards to limit exposure," says Mehta.

Users must also remain on alert for phishing scams. "Avoid clicking on suspicious links or sharing information on untrusted websites," says Mali.
